News from Entire County in Condensed Form

Funeral services for William J. Clemmens, who was killed in an automobile accident at Rochester Tuesday evening, August 26, 1924, were held at Rochester Friday afternoon. A private service for members of the family, was held at Woodside, the home of Mr. Clemmens' father-in-law, George Eln, at 1:30, Rev. H. L. Sawyer of Windsor, a former pastor of the Rochester Congregational church, officiated. Walter Moyle, of Yorkville, and Mrs. Roy Blackburn, of Honey Creek, sang "In Heavenly Love Abiding."

Dr. John L. Taylor of Libertyville, coroner of Lake county and wife arrived home the latter part of last week after a three months' honeymoon in foreign countries. Dr. Taylor was one of the heroes of the White Star line Arable ran into a hurricane enroute to New York, 25 miles from Nantucket.

The coroner's jury on Tuesday evening returned a verdict that William E. Robertson, whose mangled body was found on the St. Paul track near Fox Lake on the morning of Aug. 2, had met his death in accidental manner, the circumstances of which were unknown to the members of the jury.

Thru the efforts of the Melberry Park Improvement association, which is being tendered the co-operation of the Melberry city council, water from the city mains has been led into the city's park on Pearl street. Thus an additional means has been provided whereby visitors who stop at the park for short rest periods or for the purpose of eating their picnic luncheons are supplied with clean, healthy water. The new convenience will be found in the northwest end of the park.

Charges of assault, brought by Harry Stripe, of Waukegan, against E. L. Ballie, Zion motorcycle policeman, were dismissed Friday by Justice Hervey Coulson.

Stripe's wife and a son, were the only witnesses called. The defense did not put in their case. Stripe charged that Ballie had pulled a gun and threatened to blow up three tires on his automobile, after the officer had halted him. He testified that he was forced to return to the station where he was allowed to sign a bond for his own recognizance. Attorney Harold Hansen acted for the state.

Attorney J. A. Miller, for the defense, brought out that Stripe had crossed a car on the wrong side in the main district of Zion and then went into the rough sand strip of road where it narrows past the business district. Stripe testified that he "jiggled" along this rough part for about 200 feet. He also stated he had tried to place a ring with the desk sergeant as surety, not knowing jewelry is not acceptable as a bond under the law.

He had been taken for reckless driving, but the case was dismissed. He took out the warrant immediately after the arrest.

States Attorney Smith has announced an active campaign against the baseball pools, and it is reported that he is directing his attention to certain sources in Waukegan from which the baseball tickets are sold to emanate.

For a long time there have been reports reaching the office of the prosecutor that tickets from baseball pools conducted in Chicago and other large cities have been smuggled into Waukegan and disposed of to local fans. It is reported that investigators have been working on the matter and that arrests may be made in the near future.

"I am going to the bottom of this thing and shall arrest and prosecute all violators," the states attorney is quoted as having asserted.

John Melberg of Grayslake was the first to feel the wrath of the prosecutor. Melberg was fined $100 and costs recently when he was arraigned before Justice Coulson. Several baseball tickets are alleged to have been found in his confectionery store when a raid was conducted by the states attorney's squad.

20 Years Ago in Antioch

Thursday, September 8, 1904

Clara Schilke is visiting in Chicago this week.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Schilke is entertaining company from the city this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Ray of Waukegan spent Sunday with Antioch relatives.

Percy Chinn and wife and baby of Kenosha are visiting relatives here.

School opened on Monday with a total enrollment of one hundred and forty-nine pupils.

Miss Grace Judd of Kenosha is visiting relatives here.

Miss Maude Bragan of Winthrop Harbor spent Sunday with her mother here.

We understand that John Van Patten, formerly of Antioch, has purchased some land at Chelet, Wis., and expects to build a house this fall.

Wm. Keulman has moved his jewelry store into the building vacated by Henry Herman, next door to his old location, where he will be pleased to see his friends and customers.

On Monday evening of this week a goodly number of the members of Sequoia lodge A. F. & A. M. in response to an invitation issued to them by the officers and members of Rising Sun lodge number 115, A. F. & A. M. of Grayslake, availed themselves of the opportunity to meet at that place and be present at the initiation of three candidates in the third degree.

A session was held in the afternoon at which two of the candidates were initiated. The evening session, at which one candidate was initiated was in charge of the Waukegan lodge who exemplified the work in a most satisfactory manner. At the close of the evening session the ladies of the Eastern Star invited the members to a banquet, which was served at the Woodman hall. After the banquet speech making was indulged in and merriment reigned supreme until a late hour. Many compliments were bestowed upon the officers and members of Rising Sun lodge and also upon the ladies of the Eastern Star in appreciation of the royal manner in which they had entertained their guests.

GAME AND FISH

AT COUNTY FAIRS

Fishermen, hunters and sportsmen generally, also that vast percentage of Illinois public not strictly classed as Huckleberry Finns and Izaak Walton, will find an interesting exhibit awaiting them at county fairs this year. The Division of Game and Fish will have on display there, in connection with the general exhibit staged by the state, mounted types of game and migratory birds, fur bearing animals and fish of every variety known to Illinois waters.

Then there will be mounted mallard ducks, brants, snipe, quail, ring-neck pheasants, black bass, crappies, even catfish, all appropriately mounted and "natural as life."

This division of the state government is one in which Governor Small takes special pride, and next to his road building program is said by his close friends to amount almost to a hobby. In his message to the last legislature he strongly emphasized the necessity for legislation looking toward the conservation, propagation and reclamation of Illinois game and fish. He approved the appropriations of the last general assembly, permitting the Game and Fish Division to install hatcheries in the various zones of Illinois.

It is not a generally known fact that the game and fish division not only is self supporting, but returns a handsome surplus to the state treasury annually. Besides operating without a cent of tax burden upon the people, it provides many thousands of dollars' worth of wholesome food for charitable institutions. Attendees at the local fair will explain to visitors the workings of the division.

TWO LOCAL BOYS TO ATTEND STATE FAIR SCHOOL

The state fair school opened Friday at Springfield and four Lake county youths who were honored by being given free transportation, and their other expenses paid by the county, are in attendance.

The four youths who have been rewarded for high averages made in agricultural subjects in the high schools are to get additional training in that line at the fair school.

They are Arthur Christensen and Louis Paddock, both of Antioch high

Grade School Opens With a 167 Enrollment

There are 167 pupils enrolled at the Grade school distributed through the various grades as follows:—Grade eight, 19 pupils; grade seven, 22 pupils; grade six, 16 pupils; grade five, 21 pupils; grade four, 20 pupils; grade three, 20 pupils; grade two, 26 pupils; grade one, 23 pupils.

Classes in grades seven and eight are conducted along departmental lines. Miss Douzek teaches spelling, history, reading, grammar, penmanship and art. Mr. McTaggart teaches arithmetic, civic, geography and music.

Each grade has three half hours of art instruction per week and two half hours of music.

The addition of the John Didenia property to the playground makes it possible to allot a large space for play to each room, here the children enjoy their games under the supervision of their teachers.

Parents are cordially invited to visit the school. In fact, we urge you to visit us because it is the best means of securing cooperation which is so essential if the best work possible is to be done.

On the whole, our attendance was very good the past several years. However, in some instances children are kept out of school unnecessarily—sneaking home to take care of younger brother or sister, a trip to Chicago, etc., are given as reasons for absence. The only valid excuse is sickness. When a child is absent he not only misses the work covered by the class during his absence but he also retards his class because a certain amount of repetition is necessary. Let each parent do his duty in this matter.

Soon an announcement regarding our first Parent-Teacher Association meeting will be published in "The News," watch for it. Your attendance at these meetings will be appreciated, it will help to make them a success.

Jim Woodman and Gene Runyard Speakers

What seems to be a bunch of "regulars" were on hand last Monday evening at the Business club monthly dinner held at Wurz's Sepp's. About 46 were on hand and a very nice dinner was enjoyed. Gene Runyard was on hand with Jim Woodman and Gene had to respond. He took up the subject of roads, and gave the business men some very valuable information on the road conditions in this section and laid considerable stress on the road running west to Channel Lake and Richmond. Runyard brought out the fact that a survey had already been made on this road and that it was up to the business men of this section to get busy and get a routing through so that right of ways might be cleared.

A committee consisting of Elmer Brook, Frank King, Herbert Vos, Bill Hillebrand, Wm. Rosling, Chase Webb, Wm. Christian, Barney Naber, Less Crandall and Robt. Aht was selected to go before the road and bridge committee and get some action on this matter. A committee consisting of Bill Williams, John Woodhead and Frank King, was also appointed to draw up a schedule for approval to be submitted to the North Shore Bus Line.

Jim Woodman, the speaker of the evening gave a very interesting talk on what he termed "Friendship in Business." His talk covered some very interesting and instructive points in business ethics. The dinner adjourned much earlier than usual and we got back to town about 10:00 p. m.

Emmett, Dixon Vose of Newport and Emil Martens of Waukegan, the latter two attended Warren township high school.

Vose and Martens won prizes last spring for their ability in dairy cow judging at the University of Illinois.

High School Enrollment Reaches 120

There are 120 pupils enrolled at the high school, and there are several yet to come in. There are only 121 seats so it seems that there is likely to be a full house. The freshman class is somewhat smaller this year than last. The enrollment by classes is as follows:

Freshmen, 18, boys, 23 girls; Sophomores, 19 boys, 19 girls; Juniors, 7 boys, 12 girls; Seniors, 6 boys, 15 girls; Post Graduates, 1 girl; total, 50 boys, 70 girls.

The courses this year are almost the same as in preceding years with the addition of Farm Management and Spanish. There are 16 boys who are taking Spanish. The class in Music Appreciation has been withdrawn for this year and in its place a beginning class in orchestra instruments is offered. Mr. Stark will have a class of 14 in beginning violin.

Others are enrolled for clarinet, cello, saxophone, French horn and corset. It is hoped that in a year or so these people can be assembled into a first class orchestra. The enrollment in cooking and Manual Training has increased to such an extent that it was necessary to add new tables and benches. Agriculture has also become a popular subject there being 26 in the Animal Husbandry class. There are 24 who wish to learn type writing and since there are but six machines they will be in use most of the day. The class in Virgil is the largest we have ever had.

The faculty for the year is as follows: L. O. Bright, Principal and Mathematics; L. R. Watson, Manual Training and Coach; C. L. Kuttli, Agriculture; L. A. Stark, Science, Orchestra; Alice Smith, History, Latin; Deedle Tiffany, Home Economics; Helen Bauck, English, Music; Margaret Hell, English, Spanish, Commercial.

The eighth grade graduates were comparatively few last spring both at the local grade school and in the country districts. It is reported that the number will be greatly increased next year. The question is "if a small eighth grade graduating class fills the high school to capacity, where will they put a large class next year?"

Supervisors Expected to O. K. Road Police

The inauguration of the Lake county highway patrol system through the employment of six motorcycle officers, shows that during the past six months there were comparatively few accidents of a serious nature and hold-ups by auto bandits were much less numerous than in former seasons.

The motorcycle officers have patrolled practically all the main highways of the county day and night, and have brought about enforcement of the motor vehicle act. The result has been that accidents have been much less numerous than in former seasons, and there have been fewer "strik-ups."

The orders carried out by the officers were to the effect that arrests were not to be made unless motorists exceeded the speed limit by an undisciplined margin or where they showed actual negligence or carelessness in driving so that they would endanger the lives of other motorists.

Those who deliberately violated the law soon found themselves in the toils of the law, and the justice of the county fined them according to the gravity of the cases. Thousands of motorists were fined during the past six months, as a result of the checkup. In fact a record was reached over the last week-end, when 84 motorists were taken.

Justices of the Peace Emil Ficke of Lake Zurich who handles most of the violations cases on Road road, recently turned into the road and bridge fund in Elia township more than $1,000.

CAVERLY GIVES SENTENCE OF LIFE IMPRISONMENT AND NINETY-NINE YEARS

Report over the radio Wednesday morning gave out the sentence decided upon by Judge Caverly in the Leopold and Loeb case. The judge passed down a sentence of life imprisonment for the murder and 99 years for the kidnapping. This is evidently passed down in this way to forestall any attempt at parole, as the law requires the serving of 14 years of a life sentence and the serving of at least one-half of any sentence.

Question List of Winners in Fair Prizes

Slowly but surely the facts on the Libertyville fair are cropping out. Among other reports that have been rumored around the Waukegan Sun comes out with the following editorially:

Under date of September 6: "Lake County folks would like to have Fred Grabbe and the others who had to do with 'giving away that $25,000 in the county fair prizes' furnish the addresses of SOME of the winners."

"Humphreys of Indianapolis" wins the $1000; Indianapolis is a big place and there are a lot of Humphreys in the directory. It's easy to say that one winner was that shown on a "blind stub." If the stub had been a "dime" it would have been a case of placing too much dependence on individuals who apparently have lined their own pockets and to our way of thinking didn't give away a dime to anybody. If they DID, they have not tried very HARD to prove it; instead, their "awards" were so raw they smell. Hundreds of folks are sore over the whole thing. Our hope is it hasn't hurt the fair. We fear it has to a certain extent."

Under date of September 8: "And then besides, the mere address of some man in 'Indianapolis' who might be credited with having 'given' $10,000 by the county fair ticket swindling process, wouldn't be sufficient—any Indianapolis man would furnish an ADDRESS for a good clean dime or dollar. To make the public believe that the affair was on the square it would be necessary to show cancelled check and to show that the money actually passed thru the bank. After thinking this ticket deal over and hearing the comments on it from all sides, it strikes us that it was quite the most atrocious imposition ever imposed on the public."

"And, we hear that at one time just before the fair started, one of the promoters suggested that 'it won't be necessary to give away the money nor the autos—we'll get things all lined up to the point where it looks as if we are going to carry through the announced awards and then we'll get state's attorney Smith to step in and serve notice on us that we can't do that sort of a thing under the law; and so presto, we won't have to give away anything.'"

"But, another man suggested that he was sure the state's attorney would not be made a party to such a swindle of the public and insisted that if such a thing were contemplated, he would resign from the fair association official list—and he did."

"The deal originally called for the posting of a big bond whereby the men who took the ticket proposition would insure the fair association they would go through with their share of the deal—but, they never made good on the bond any more than they did on anything else connected with the plan which from the outset struck thinking persons as being most illegal. When you've got to give away $25,000 in cash to induce people to attend a county fair or anything else, it's time to quit doing things for the people thus being entered to."

"We've personally liked some of the men to whom this ticket deal was assigned but in this affair they have done much to arouse our suspicions as to their right to retain public confidence."

While the officials of the fair association have proved themselves of having the best interest of the association at heart, they have allowed certain parties year after year to use this fair as a means of a "clean up."

Officials of Fox Lake Are Held for Trial

Release Men Responsible for Robbery of Special Agents for Smith

Five men, including the Fox Lake postmaster, justice of the peace and a lumber dealer were arrested by county authorities Sunday night on a charge of conspiring to defraud justice after several men were freed on bonds when they had not yet ever been booked.

Howard Scott, postmaster, William J. Nagle, lumber dealer, Marshal J. D. Riggs and Harold Watts and Geo. Koeth, Sr., were those taken. They were arraigned in justice court before Judge Hervey C. Coulson Monday and all five of the men were placed under bonds of $1,000 each. Their case will come up on September 17.

The incidents which led up to the arrest of the three prominent Fox Lake men were many and involved. In chronological order, they occurred as follows:

Two operatives from the McQueeney Detective Agency of Chicago, working for State's Attorney A. V. Smith and gathering evidence of illegal sale of liquor in the Fox Lake district, stepped over the county line for 40 feet to Peter Johnson's resort which is just off Fox Lake and said to be responsible for much trouble in this county.

The two operatives had purchased drinks as evidence, according to the story at the state's attorney's office, and were about to pay for them when a cry suddenly went up: "Prohibition agents! Let's get them!"

There were over a score of rough characters in the place at the time and all gathered around the two detectives. The latter state that Pete Johnson, the proprietor, flashed a revolver and threatened to shoot them. No fireworks resulted, but the two agents were held up and robbed of about $20 which they had in their pockets. Then they were let out of the place and headed for Fox Lake on the Lake county side of the line. Several of the rowdies who had threatened them followed the two detectives.

While the two were in Fox Lake, someone called from that section and got in touch with C. A. Brune, head of the sponge squad. Brune made a hurried trip to Fox Lake and arrived in time to arrest five or six of the rowdies. These he placed in the Fox Lake jail, pending action by the state's attorney.

After seeing them lodged in the Fox Lake jail, Brune and his squad left the scene and went on other raids.

When they had left, some friends of the arrested men got in touch with the officials there and asked that the men be released. According to the law, the men should have been held in jail until they were legally charged with some violation. The Fox Lake authorities, however, felt that most likely the charge would be disorderly conduct and decided that it would be a pity to hold the men overnight in the village jail.

Therefore, the gang was arraigned before Justice of the Peace George Koeth, Sr., and released in bonds. The bonds were signed by Howard Scott and William Nagle.

After the men were released, Brune got wind of the affair and made another trip to Fox Lake, this time arresting Scott, Nagle and Koeth on charges of conspiring to defraud justice.

WAUCONDA MAN HELD IN MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

A charge of manslaughter against Theodore Globis, 24, of Wauconda was recommended following an automobile accident Saturday night which resulted in the death of Helen Dowell 22, also of Wauconda, with whom the former was driving. An inquest held into the death of the girl showed that Globis had been under the influence of liquor at the time and alleged reckless driving had resulted in the machine being overturned causing the death of his girl's companion.

Globis and Miss Dowell were both employed by George Schlade, a farmer living near Wauconda. A barn dance was being held Saturday night in a barn on the McGraw farm, located about five miles south of Barrington. The fatal accident occurred directly in front of the farm, there being an unusually sharp turn at that spot.

Judith of BLUE LAKE RANCH

By JACKSON GREGORY

Copyright by CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

In these days with women winning championships in outdoor games and athletic contests and successfully invading lines of endeavor that a past generation had set apart exclusively for men, is it not logical to have a heroine of fiction who takes a man's part in the management of a big enterprise and brings to bear the qualities of courage, coolness and daring especially called for in making the undertaking a success? It is decidedly logical, particularly in the West where girls on ranches are taught to shoot straight, tame outlaw horses, brand cattle and in general respects be qualified not only to take care of themselves, but to meet any exigency calling for judgment and nerve.

The boys of the Blue Lake outfit were pretty thoroughly disgusted when they learned they were to have a girl for a boss. Opinions changed, however, when a few of Judith's quiet exploits, performed under the stress of necessity and without any bravado or sacrifice of womanliness, proved her to be the best man on the big ranch. Judith did not seek the job of management. It was forced upon her through the death of her father and her realization that her foreman was a rascal bent upon wrecking the enterprise in the interests of a rival concern.

It was a stupendous job and the girl who could handle it successfully deserved to be the heroine of an exhilarating romance. Judith is decidedly welcome because she is a new type of heroine. She is all the more welcome from the fact that she is not an exaggerated type. There are plenty of girls in the West and elsewhere who, given such a grand old father to train them as Judith had, would be able to show the true steel which she exhibited; and, like Judith, would remain sweet and womanly throughout. Judith will win readers just as she won the Blue Lake boys. It is only fair to reveal that there was one of those boys who held out against surrender. He had old-fashioned notions of what a woman should be and what a woman could do. With the exception of Judith, he is the most interesting character in the story.

CHAPTER I

Bud Lee Wants to Know

Bud Lee, horse foreman of the Blue Lake ranch, sat upon the gate of the home corral, builded a cigarette with slow brown fingers, and stared across the broken fields of the upper valley to the rocky glow above the pine-timbered ridge where the sun was coming up. His customary gravity was unusually pronounced.

"If a man's got the hunch an egg is bad," he mused, "is that a good and sufficient reason why he should go poking his fingers inside the shell? I want to know."

Tommy Burkitt, the youngest wage-earner of the outfit and a profound admirer of all that taciturnity, good humor and quick capability which went into the makeup of Bud Lee, approached from the ranch-house on the knoll. "Hi, Bud," he called. "Trevors wants you. On the jump."

Burkitt stopped at the gate, looking up at Lee. "On the jump, Trevors said," he repeated.

For a moment Lee sat still, his cigarette unlighted, his broad black hat far back upon his close-cropped hair, his eyes serenely contemplative upon the pink of the sky above the pines. Then he slipped from his place and, though each single movement gave an impression of great leisureliness, it was but a flash of time until he stood beside Burkitt.

"Stick around a wee bit, lad," he said gently, a lean brown hand resting lightly on the boy's square shoulder. "A man can't see what is on the cards until they're tipped, but it's always a fair gamble that between dawn and dusk I'll gather up my string of colts and crowd on. If I do, you'll want to come along?"

He smiled at young Burkitt's eagerness and turned away toward the ranch-house and Bayne Trevors, thus putting an early end to an enthusiastic acquiescence.

"They ain't no more men ever foaled like him," meditated Tommy, in an approval so profound as to be little less than out-and-out devotion.

And, indeed, one might ride up and down the world for many a day and not find a man who was Bud Lee's superior in "the things that count." As tall as most, with sufficient shoulders, a slender body, narrow-hipped, he carried himself as perhaps his forebear walked in the days when open forests or sheltered caverns housed them, with a lithe gracefulness born of the perfect play of superb physical development. His muscles, even in the slight movement, flowed fluidly; he had slipped from his place on the corral gate less like a man than like some great, splendid cat. The skin of his hands, face, throat, was very dark, whether by inheritance or because of long exposure to sun and wind, it would have been difficult to say. The eyes were dark, very keen, and yet reminiscently grave. From under their black brows they had the habit of appearing to be reluctantly withdrawn from some great distance to come to rest, steady and calm, upon the man with whom he chanced to be speaking.

The gaunt, sure-footed form was lost to Tommy's eyes; Lee had passed beyond the clump of wild lilacs whose glistening, heart-shaped leaves screened the open court about which the ranch-house was built. A strangely elaborate ranch-house, this one, set here so far apart from the world of rich residences. There was a score of rooms in the great, one-story, rambling edifice of rudely squared timbers set in field-stone and cement, rooms now closed and locked; there were flower-gardens still cultivated daily by Jose, the half-breed; a pretty court with a fountain and many roses, set upon which a dozen doorways looked; wide verandas with glimpses beyond of fireplaces and long expanses of polished floors. For, until recently, this had been not only the headquarters of Blue Lake ranch, but the home as well of the chief of its several owners, Luke Sanford, whose own efforts alone had made him at forty-five a man to be reckoned with, had followed his fancy here extensively and expensively, allowing himself this one luxury of his runny lean, hard years. Then, six months ago, just as his ambitions were stepping to fresh heights, just as his hands were filling with newer, greater endeavor, there had come the mishap in the mountains and Sanford's tragic death.

Lee passed silently through the courtyard and came to the door at the far end. The door stood open; within was the office of Bayne Trevors, general manager. Lee entered, his hat still far back upon his head. The sound of his boots upon the bare floor caused Trevors to look up quickly.

"Hello, Lee," he said quietly. "Want a minute, will you?"

Quite a different type from Lee, Bayne Trevors was heavy and square and hard. His eyes were the glinting gray eyes of a man who is forceful, dynamic, the sort of man who is a better captain than lieutenant, whose hands are strong to grasp life by the throat and demand that she stand and deliver. Only because of his wide and successful experience, of his initiative, of his way of quick, decisive action, mated to a marked executive ability, had Luke Sanford chosen Bayne Trevors as his right-hand man in so colossal a venture as the Blue Lake ranch. Only because of the same pushing, vigorous personality was he this morning general manager, with the unlimited authority of a dictator over a petty principality.

In a moment Trevors lifted his frowning eyes from the table, turning in his chair to confront Lee, who stood lounging in leisurely manner against the door-jamb.

"That young idiot wants money again," he growled, his voice a sharp and quick as his eyes. "As if I didn't have enough to contend with already."

"What Would You Say to Fifty Dollars a Head?"

"Meaning young Hampton, I take it?" said Lee quietly.

Trevors nodded savagely.

"Telegraphic. Caught it over the line the last thing last night. We'll have to sell some horses this time, Lee."

Lee's eyes narrowed imperceptibly. "I didn't plan to do any selling for six months yet," he said, not in expostulation but merely in explanation. "They're not ready."

"How many three-year-olds have you got in your string down in the Big meadow?" asked Trevors crisply. "Counting those eleven Red Duke colts?"

"Counting everything. How many?" "Seventy-three."

The general manager's pencil wrote upon the pad in front of him "73," then swiftly multiplied it by 50. Lee saw the result, 3,650 set down with the dollar sign in front of it. He said nothing.

"What would you say to fifty dollars a head for them?" asked Trevors, whirling again in his swivel chair. "Three thousand six fifty for the bunch?"

"I'd say the same," answered Lee deliberately, "that I'd say to a man that offered me two bits for Daylight or Ladybird. I just naturally wouldn't say nothing at all."

Trevors smiled cynically. "What are the seventy-three colts worth, then?"

"Right now, when I'm just ready to break 'em in," said Bud Lee thoughtfully, "the worst of that string is worth fifty dollars. I'd say twenty of the herd ought to bring fifty dollars a head; twenty more ought to bring sixty; ten are worth seventy-five; ten are worth an even hundred; seven of the Red Duke stock are good for a hundred and a quarter; the other four Red Dukes and the three Robert the Devils are worth a hundred and fifty a head. The whole bunch, an easy fifty-seven hundred little iron men."

He stared hard at Trevors a moment. And then, partially voicing the thought with which he had grappled upon the corral gate, he added meditatively: "There's something awfully peculiar about an outfit that will listen to a man offer fifty bucks on a string like that."

His eyes, cool and steady, met Trevors' in a long look which was little short of a challenge.

"Just how far does that go, Lee?" asked the manager curtly.

"As far as you like," replied the horse foreman coolly. "Are you going to sell those three-year-olds for thirty-six hundred?"

"Yes," answered Trevors bluntly. "I am. What are you going to do about it?"

"Ask for my time, I guess," and although his voice was gentle and even pleasant, his eyes were hard. "I'll take my own little string and move on."

"Curse it!" cried Trevors heatedly. "What difference does it make to you? What business is it of yours how I sell? You draw down your monthly pay, don't you? I raised you a notch last month without your asking for it, didn't I?"

"That's so," agreed the foreman, equably. "It's a cinch none of the boys have any kick equaling at the wages."

For a moment Trevors sat frowning up at Lee's inscrutable face. Then he laughed shortly. "Look here, Bud," he said good-humoredly, an obvious seriousness of purpose under the light tone. "I want to talk with you before you do anything rash. Sit down." But Lee remained standing, merely saying, "Shoot."

"I wonder," explained Trevors, "if the boys understand just the idea of the job I've got in my hands? You know that the ranch is a million-dollar outfit; you know that you can ride fifteen miles without getting off the home-range; you know that we are doing a dozen different kinds of farming and stock-raising. But you don't know just how short the money is! There's that young idiot now, Hampton. He holds a third interest and I've got to consider what he says, even if he is a weak-minded, inbred pup that can't do anything but spend an inheritance like the born fool he is. His share is mortgaged; I've got to pay the mortgage off. I've got to keep the interest up. Interest alone amounts to three thousand dollars a year. Think of that! Then there's Luke Sanford dead and his one-third interest left to another young fool, a girl! Every two weeks she's writing for a report, eternally butting in, making suggestions, hampering me until I'm sick of the job."

"That would be Luke's girl, Judith?"

"Yes. Two of the three owners' kids, writing me at every turn. And the third owner, Timothy Orag, the only sensible one of the lot, has just up and sold out his share, and I suppose I'll be hearing next that some supernannated female in an old lady's home has inherited a fortune and bought him out. And now you, the best man I've got, throw me down!"

"I don't see," said Lee slowly, after a brief pause, "just what good it does to sell a good string of horses like they were sheep. Half of that herd is real horse-flesh, I tell you."

"Well," snapped Trevors, "suppose you are right. I've got to raise three thousand dollars in a hurry. Where will I get it?"

"Who is offering fifty dollars a head for those horses?" asked Lee abruptly. "It might be the Big Western Lumber company?"

"Yes."

"Uh-huh. Well, you can kill the rats in your own barn, Trevors. I'll go look for a job somewhere else."

Bayne Trevors, his lips tightly compressed, his eyes steady, a faint, angry flush in his cheeks, checked what words were coming to his tongue and looked keenly at his foreman. Lee met his regard with cool unconcern. Then, just as Trevors was about to speak, there came an interruption. The quiet of the morning was broken by the quick thud of a horse's shod hoofs on the hard ground of the courtyard. Bud Lee in the doorway turned to see a strange horse drawn up so that upon its four bunched hoofs it stood to a standstill; saw a slender figure, which in the early light he mistook for a boy, slip out of a saddle. And then, suddenly, a girl, the spurs of her little riding-boots making jingling music on the veranda, her riding-quirt swinging from her wrist, had stepped by him and was looking with bright, suppling eyes

EMMERSON MAKES ANOTHER RECORD IN COLLECTIONS

Fees of Office of Secretary of State Will Exceed Last Year's.

MAY PASS $16,000,000

Fourteen and Half Million Collected in 1923 Set New Mark Up to That Time.

At the end of the first six months of 1924 the indications were that the enormous total of $14,400,000 collected in fees by Secretary of State Louis L. Emmerson last year will be exceeded by two million dollars this year. The steady growth in total fees collected by the secretary of state has attracted the attention of men interested in governmental finances in all sections of the country.

The year prior to the beginning of Mr. Emmerson's administration the total collections of the office amounted to only $1,820,000. The increase from this figure to $14,400,000 in seven years is considered a remarkable achievement.

Auto Fees Huge Total. Much of the increase, of course, has been due to the growth in automobile fee collections, but not all of it by any means. In 1910, the total fees of the office exclusive of automobile fees was $577,000. Last year, fees of the office other than automobile amounted to $4,750,000.

The total motor vehicle fees in the seven years increased from $1,242,500 to $9,653,000.

Last year's total was passed during the first six months of this year and the indications are that the total automobile fee collections will approximate $13,000,000 for the entire year.

A comparison of the fees collected by the various departments in 1910 and in 1923 shows that the fees paid by foreign corporations increased

AUCTION SALE BILLS

Auction Sales, like every other form of business, is dependent upon advertising. The most popular method for publicity for these sales is through poster advertising. It enables the advertiser to better reach the class of trade that he desires in an economical way. But the mere posting of posters is not by any means the result for the attracting of prospects to sales. There must be a snap and neatness to the bill as in any other form of advertising. In this respect THE ANTIOCH PRESS has built for itself an envious reputation in the matter of typography, and its increase in the printing of posters for the last two years has been marked.

This year THE ANTIOCH PRESS offer a greater inducement than in previous years. It has installed a cut making system and you are entitled to come and make your choice of a number of cuts for your poster FREE OF CHARGE. This is in addition to the free notice published on the front page of THE ANTIOCH NEWS prior to the date of sale. We will gladly call for copy, submit samples and help you in making up your sale bill. Many different colors of stock on hand at all times for you to choose from. Phone Antioch 43, or Farmers line if you can't come.

SHOW HOW STATE BUILDS ITS ROADS

Patrons of county and district fairs in Illinois will this year obtain a "close-up" view of Governor Small's pet hobby—the building of hard roads. In the past years only four exhibition outfits to supply demands of fairs have been available. There are now eight outfits ready to go on the circuit of fairs.

The display, as it is being shown at county fairs, consists of two large maps of Illinois, illuminated by a special electric arrangement; twenty-four pictures showing scenes of bridges and paved roads in various sections of Illinois; seven hexes containing both satisfactory and unsatisfactory materials, (sand, gravel, rock cement and steel). These are used to illustrate the method of testing employed by the Bureau of Materials.

There also will be shown a small model illustrating the concrete slab design now being laid on Illinois highways.

The road marking system of the state will be shown in both models and pictures.

Probably the outstanding feature of the division of highways' exhibit is the large illuminated map showing the $60,000,000 Road Issue System and progress of work to date. This map includes also the routes incorporated in the proposed $100,000,000 road bond issue act, passed by the last legislature, and which will be presented to voters for ratification at the November election. Approval of the bond issue will provide means for the completion of a system of 3,800 miles of improved highways in Illinois.

Of no little interest will be a four-reel moving picture, which attempts to demonstrate the construction of a durable, hard surfaced highway from the time the material is taken from the ground until the pavement is completed and open to traffic.

The highway exhibit, because it is an educational feature and because of its appeal to the general public, commercially and from the farmers' standpoint, will occupy a prominent place at the fairs. Attendants from the division of highways will be on hand to answer questions and explain things not familiar to the layman.

Simple Methods of Cleaning Silver

As the winter months approach, the warmer drapes and silver candlesticks and all the winter additions are once more put in place. Sometimes this is a great effort as the silver is anything but bright. But I have found an easy method for cleaning it which takes away some of the tediousness.

Use a clean aluminum pan (free from grease), one teaspoon of baking soda and one teaspoon of table salt to each quart of boiling water. Immerse the silverware until tarnish is removed then rinse in clean warm water and rub dry with a clean soft cloth.

Supervisors Expected to O. K. Road Police

100 obtained in fines from violators of the motor vehicle act. Justices at Antioch, Wauconda, Lake Villa, Libertyville, Grayslake, have turned in large sums to the road and bridge fund in their respective townships. This money is to be used in the improvement of the highways and maintenance.

Many residents of the county claim that the highway patrol has caused reckless or drunken drivers to be more cautious, and that the roads are much safer for local drivers.

The supervisors last spring appropriated $5,000 for the employment of the six motorcycle officers, estimated to take care of the operations of the force until Sept. 1. When the county board meets again on Sept. 9, the proposition will come up as to whether the plan is to be continued.

Many of the supervisors have sounded out their constituents and feel out the plan should be perpetuated.

The motor cops have also captured a large number of beer runners who have paid fines to the county amounting to several thousands dollars.

COMPLETES ITS FOURTH YEAR

A cow-testing association, organized in 1919 in Lawrence County, Pa., through the efforts of the county agricultural extension agent, completed its fourth year with the highest association butterfat average made in that State, 332.3 pounds per cow for the year. The members have used the information their testing has given them during the four years in improving their feed rations, in feeding individual cows according to production, in better regulating their feeding and milking schedules, in detecting unprofitable cows, and in building up the quality of their herds by better breeding methods. Their records show, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture, that the average butterfat per cow in the tested herds the first year was 243 pounds, and for the past year, 332.3 pounds; the average milk production per cow the first year was 6,018 pounds, which was increased to 7,531 pounds the last year.

Hints for the Household

RECEIPTS

Good Old Fashioned Chili Sauce
30 red tomatoes
6 onions
20 tablespoons of sugar
3 red peppers (hot)
5 tablespoons of salt
5 cups of vinegar
Chop tomatoes, onions and peppers together. Add the remaining ingredients and cook slowly for at least an hour.

Dependable Pie Crust

It is wonderful to feel sure of your pie crust. To know, before-hand, that it will be good. And it is very easy to make pie crust always the same. That is, by simply adding a little vinegar. The vinegar does not taste and makes the crust flaky.

The recipe I like for pie crust is:
1 cup of flour
Salt to taste
½ teaspoon of baking powder
½ cup of lard
3 large tablespoons of water
1 small tablespoon of vinegar (mixed with the water)

Pierce a little with a fork to prevent rising. This makes one ordinary two-crust pie or eight open individual pies.

SWEET PEPPER RELISH

12 green peppers
12 red peppers
15 medium onions
Put through a chopper and cover with boiling water. Let stand ten minutes and add 3 cups of vinegar, 2 cups of sugar and 3 tablespoons of salt. Boil all together fifteen minutes.

PICALILLY

4 quarts of chopped green tomatoes
¼ cup of salt
2 teaspoons of pepper
3 teaspoons of cinnamon
3 teaspoons of allspice
3 teaspoons of cloves
½ cup white mustard seeds
4 green peppers, sliced
2 chopped onions
2 quarts of vinegar
1 small cabbage

Method:—Add salt to sliced tomatoes and peppers. Cover—let stand twenty-four hours. Drain—Add the spices in a bag to vinegar and heat to the boiling point. Cook 15 minutes after boiling point is reached.

To Clean Aluminum Pans

If you heat aluminum pans first before scouring you will find they will clean lots easier and quicker.

Green Tomato Mince Meat

1 peck of green tomatoes, chopped fine. Drain off juice and throw away. Add as much water as there was juice and cook until tender. Add—
5 pounds of brown sugar
2 pounds of raisins
½ coffee cup of butter
1 tablespoon of cloves
1 tablespoon of cinnamon (this can be omitted)
2 tablespoons of allspice
2 tablespoons of nutmeg
2 tablespoons of salt
Cook until thick. Then add 1 cup of vinegar and cook longer. This makes five quarts.

A TIME SAVER

Have you ever been ready to serve your tomato salad and found, at the last minute, you had forgotten to skin your tomatoes?

If so, you will be glad to know a quick way of skinning them. Just stick tomato on end of fork. Then hold over lighted burner of stove until the tomato goes pop. Then turn it on other side until it pops. Then hold it a second under the cold water and skin will peel off easily and your tomato will be cold enough to serve immediately.

with his herd of Duroc Jerseys. In the entries for Hampshire hogs, Bert Turner of Libertyville, carried off all the ribbons, with his prize herd of the white belted hogs.

SHEEP

In this competition, Allendale Farm of Lake Villa, won all premiums with their Oxford breed. In the Shropshire entries, Edgar Harris of Orays, Lake, won all ribbons. In the Hampshire breed, the Duffield Farms of Waukegan was winners of all premiums.

Birchwood Farms Entries Are All Winners

The Birchmont farms, located near Ingleside, of which John L. Nicholson & Son are the owners and proprietors had five head of their fancy Holstein stock entered at the Lake county fair at Libertyville over the week end, and every one of them carried away a prize, and this, too, against good, stiff competition. The Birchmont breeders took first prize on a junior bull, first on a six-year-old bull, second on an eight months' old heifer, second on senior two-year-old and third on an eight months' old heifer. Besides this they were also awarded the prize for junior champion bull. The herd has already gone thru two clean tests and the owners are confident that they will pass another clean one in Nov.

COUNTY FARMERS MAY REALIZE ON CROPS

There is hope for the Lake county farmers yet, according to the claims made by some of the agricultural experts of the county. For a time it was broadcasted that there would be nothing in the way of crops and that the farmers would suffer a decided loss.

The two weeks of hot summer weather recently dispelled some of this gloom, it would seem, as claims are now made that the corn crop will be close to average. It is true that in some sections of the county it performed miracles in growth during this brief period of good weather, no better, it is understood.

still it is doubtful if it can come anywhere near what is known as "bumper corn crops" in this part.

Threshing is taking up the greater part of the farmer's time now. They are busy taking in the small grain. This crop is just "usual" and this brief period of good weather, no better, it is understood.

OBITUARY

George Cashmore was born in the village of Stimpson, Buckinghamshire, England, November 16, 1845 and departed this life at Antioch, Illinois, U. S. A., September 2, 1924, aged 78 years, 8 months and 17 days.

He grew to manhood in the place of his birth, was there converted and united with the Methodists and has continued a Christian and a Methodist through all the succeeding years.

He was a foundry worker and brick maker and was for a number of years foreman of a brick factory in his old home.

Away back, fifty years ago, when he was twenty-eight years of age he felt the lure of the new world and he left the old home land and crossed the wide Atlantic to make his home and his life in America.

For a time he worked and farmed at Wadsworth, Lake county, Illinois. Thirty-three years ago he came to Antioch which has been his home ever since. Here he operated a brick factory for some years, but of late years on account of failing health, has confined himself to less strenuous work. But it must be said of George Cashmore that he never ceased to work until he ceased to live in this world.

To be right in his thoughts, in his actions, in his plans and in every part of his life was with him a fixed determination. He was uncompromising on matters of morals. He was a humble and faithful follower of Christ and found in Him the spiritual energy which kept him so loyal true to God and His kingdom. His sister, who kept house for him for thirty-three years, declares he was a most kind and loving brother.

He is survived by two brothers, William Cashmore of Waukegan and Jonathan Cashmore of Wadsworth, and one sister, Mary Cashmore of Antioch.

A "Nobly" Handled Calf

This calf, folks, is being "nobly" handled. "Nobly," we said. Not roughly. You see, it's this way. The two fair young maidens pictured with the calf—they had just captured it after a runaway chase—were none other than the Hon. Meriel Catherine Lytle and the Hon. Viola Maud Lytle, whose mother, the Viscountess Cobham, has just opened a retail poultry and live stock business in Kent, England.

"HIGHBALL THE STAR BOARDERS," SAYS LYNCH

"When the dairymen hear the echo of the milk as he squirts into the fourteen quart pail he has started his product on the way to market," says A. D. Lynch, director of the Illinois Agricultural Association dairy marketing department. "Whether he makes a profit or not depends largely on whether he can sell it for more than it cost him to produce it."

"He has very little control over the market quotations, but has considerable control over the items that make up his cost of production. If he can lower his cost of producing butter fat five cents per pound, he is ahead this nickel when he sells. The dairy industry will be a better branch of commerce if the men engaged in it strive for low cost of production and volume sales to an increasing population of consumers."

"The average cow in Illinois in the vast cream territory produces only 130 lb. butter fat per year. At the present price of butter fat a 130 lb. cow is unprofitable. The dairymen with only average cows is simply milking for the fun of it. A cow should produce at least 175 lbs of butter fat annually to make a paying return on the investment."

The following shows the average cost per pound of producing butter fat from 18,000 cows over a 10 year period:

A 100 lb per year cow required 34c
A 200 lb per year cow required 24c
A 300 lb per year cow required 19c
A 400 lb per year cow requires 17 1/2c

"The man who studies his farm conditions, eliminates waste in feed-log, in time and in energy, who gives his unprofitable herder cows the "highball" out of his yard to the hatcher's paddock, is cutting down his cost of production and is making a saving perhaps even greater than a co-operative selling venture would net him in increased returns.

12 Sticks of Dynamite Found at Loon Lake

Residents on the west bank of Loon Lake slept little on Wednesday night of last week. Sheriff Ahlstrom found 12 sticks of dynamite, enough to blow up Antioch township, in a cottage there.

The sheriff couldn't find the owner, and neighbors had also made themselves scarce after the report of the finding of the explosive.

A man who had been working in the neighborhood told the sheriff that the dynamite was being used for blowing stumps.

The sheriff made inquiry as to the owner of the cottage, and the workman assured the official that he would see to it that the owner removed the dynamite without "delay."

The original tip concerning the location of the dynamite came from the Chicago police officers.

Dawes Slips up on the Glad Hand to Engineer

It might be well for Gen. Dawes to take a "tip" from the engine crew of the train that carried he and his family through Omaha one night last week. Dawes apparently got "in bad" with the engineer and fireman because he did not follow the example of Roosevelt and McKinley.

W. M. Osborn, engineer of the train which carried Dawes and his family, and L. Deacon, fireman, said they "got no special thrill out of having such a prominent passenger." Reminded that Gen. Dawes did not shake hands with the engineer, Osborn said: "No, he didn't and you can tell him I said so if you see him. Roosevelt used to do it and McKinley did it. The boys liked it."

WARNER COMEDY IN HIGH VOLT COMEDY FILM

Johnny Hines, the inimitable, is coming once more in screen form to make us feel the joys of good hearty laughter, via his latest comedy success, "Conductor 1492," scheduled to appear at the Crystal theater on Sunday and Monday.

In "Conductor 1492" Johnny has a wonderful opportunity to display his ability. He takes the part of Terry O'Toole, a young Irishman just arrived from his native country, bent on fame and fortune.

With a ready smile and willing hand, Terry, harboring such lofty ideals as becoming a trifle cop and perhaps a motorman on the street car, finds his way into Lotena, Ohio, where he applies for a job as motorman. He is hired, dons the blue uniform and brass buttons, and proudly takes his car out for his run.

His adventures are many and varied, but without exception the most laugh-provoking ever encountered. He whistles away his time flirting with ladies, fighting men and collecting fares on the car.

COUNTRY MAKES HEADWAY AGAINST ANIMAL T. B.

The work of eradicating tuberculosis from the cattle herds of the country has been going forward so satisfactorily in recent years that it is predicted by those in charge of the work for the United States Department of Agriculture that within eight years it is probable that as many as 30 States may be free of the plague. This will permit of the consolidation of the veterinary forces so that work may be carried on more rapidly in the remaining States where the extent of infection is greater. The systematic plan of eradication has been going on in earnest since 1917.

According to figures compiled from reports received by the department from field forces in the various States, about 3 1/2 per cent of the cattle in the country are tuberculous. In many of the States, of course, the fection is much more extensive. The progress made in the work during the fiscal year terminating on June 30, 1924, was greater than in any previous year. The accredited herds increased from 28,526 to 48,273. A better indication of progress, however, was the extension of the plan whereby areas, such as counties, have been cleaned up in one whirlwind campaign. In the past year the number of counties adopting this plan increased from 193 to 317.

During the fiscal year 1924 more than 5,000,000 cattle were tested. The prospects are, from present indications, that this record will be exceeded by more than a million during the current fiscal year.
